

About the Contributors

Amber Workman is a PhD candidate in Hispanic Languages and Literatures at the University of California, Santa Barbara. Email: amberworkman@umail.ucsb.edu

Amit Shankar Saha is a PhD researcher in English Literature at Calcutta University. He has previously published at Muse India, Humanicus, Cerebration, Families and various other journals. E-mail: saha.amitshankar@gmail.com

Aureliano Ortega Esquivel is Professor-Investigador in the University of Guanajuato, Mexico. Previously he had been professor and investigator in private and public institutions (Encyclopedia of Mexico, National School of Restoration SEP-INAH; Faculty of Political Sciences, National School of Plastic Arts, UNAM). He had also been director of more than fifteen graduate and postgraduate degree courses. He did PhD (Philosophy) from Universidad Nacional Autónoma de México (UNAM). He has published papers on culture, politics and sociological issues in university journals, magazines and supplements, and articles on philosophy and history in specialized publications. Among his books Juan Diego; Notes on the Mexican Culture [Cultural and Artistic Direction of the State of Mexico, Toluca, 1979]; The Moment of Emilio Uranga [Government of the State of Guanajuato, Guanajuato, 1993]; The great national problems 1995 [Coyoacan, Mexico, D.F. 1995]; The Philosophical Tasks of the Present [University of Guanajuato, 1999]; Crisis of Historical Reason and Towards the anything. An Historical Interpretation [University of Guanajuato, 2000]; Ideas, Policies and Stories of Humanism in Guanajuato [La Rana, Government of the State of Guanajuato, 2001]; Contribution to Critic of Historical Reason [University of Guanajuato 2004]. The blindness of Cyclops. Essay on History and Science [University of Guanajuato, 2009] and Historiography and Identity and other Essays on Philosophy of Mexican History. [La Rana, 2009] may be mentioned. In collaboration he has published, among others, Kant in the Perspective of the Contemporary Thought [University of Guanajuato/IEC, 2005], Work of Thought [University of Guanajuato, 2009] and Hermeneutics, Subjectivity and Policy [UNAM, 2009]. He has participated in several commissions and university activities of planning and evaluation, between 1991 and 1993 and 1999 and 2003 was Dean of the Faculty of Philosophy and Letters of the University of Guanajuato. Email: aureliano52@yahoo.com.mx

B. J. Geetha is an Assistant Professor in the Department of English, Periyar University. She is a Research Scholar in the Department of English, Periyar University working on comparative study in Indian, British and French drama. She has published some research articles in national peer-reviewed journals. Some of her papers are selected for publication in international journals like Rock Pebbles, Voices and Language in India. Email: geetprem05@gmail.com

Brent Smith is working as a Teaching Assistant, University of New Mexico and studying M.A. Comparative Literature and Cultural Studies in the same university. He did M.A. Communication (2006) from University of Central Florida and worked as Instructor (2006–2009) in Full Sail University. He has published some papers in reputed journals and presented papers in quite a few conferences. E-mail: bsmith888@gmail.com

Craig Dennison is an Assistant Professor of Spanish at Westminster College in Fulton, Missouri. He received his doctorate from the University of Houston and has published in the fields of US Hispanic, Peninsular and Transatlantic Literature. He currently enjoys researching Immigrant and Mexican-American Literature, specifically from the 19th and early 20th centuries. Email: Craig.Dennison@westminster-mo.edu

Danielle Lamb is a PhD student at the University of Alberta, Canada. Her research interests include Mexican Literature, the Mexican Diaspora, Canadian Immigrant Literature, Chicano/a Literature, and Métis Literature. Email: dlamb@ualberta.ca

José Enrique Covarrubias Velasco is Professor of History, Instituto de Investigaciones Históricas, Universidad Nacional Autónoma de México, Mexico. He did Ph.D. in History from University of Hamburg, Germany. He has written Visión extranjera de México. I. El estudio de las costumbres y la situación social, México, Instituto de Investigaciones Históricas de la UNAM/Instituto Mora, 1998, La moneda de cobre en México, 1760-1842. Un problema administrativo, México, Instituto de Investigaciones Históricas de la UNAM/Instituto Mora, 2000, En busca del hombre útil. Un estudio comparativo del utilitarismo neomercantilista en México y Europa, 1748-1833, México, Instituto de Investigaciones Históricas de la UNAM, 2005. He edited Páginas sobre historia y geografía de México, México, UNAM, 1999 and Vindicación de México, México, UNAM, 2007, and co-edited La moneda en México, 1750-1920, México, El Colegio de México/El Colegio de Michoacán/Instituto Mora/Instituto de Investigaciones Históricas UNAM, 1998. Email: JEnrique@gmx.de

Lamia Khalil Hammad is an Assistant Professor of American Literature and Women's Studies at Yarmouk University, Jordan. She had been a Fulbright Scholar (1997-1999) and did Ph.D. in American Literature from Indiana University of Pennsylvania. Research interests include Post-Colonial Theory/Studies, Women's literature, Cultural Studies. She has written the book Contemporary U.S. Women of Color Theorize Subversion Through Cross-Genre Writing: Race, Gender and Culture. VDM: Germany, 2009. Email: lkhammad@yu.edu.jo

Natalie Carter is a PhD candidate at The George Washington University, Washington, D.C and working as Executive Assistant, Department of Psychology of the same university. Her areas of interest are 18th– 21st Century American Literature, Feminist Theory, Trauma Theory, Cultural Violence, Familial Relationships, Representations of Posttraumatic Stress Disorder, Gender and Sexuality Studies, The Politics of Motherhood. She has published some articles and participated in a number of conferences. Email: nlcarter@gwmail.gwu.edu

Richard Weiner is Associate Professor, Dept. of History, IPFW. He did Ph.D. (History) from the University of California, Irvine in 1999. He has written the book Race, Nation, and Market: Economic Culture in Porfirian Mexico. Tucson: University of Arizona Press, 2004 and co-edited (with Raúl Galoppe) Explorations on Subjectivity, Borders, and Demarcations: A Fine Line. Lanham, MD: University Press of America, 2005. He has contributed book chapters in a number of books and has widely published articles in many journals and presented papers in many conferences. Book Review Editor, Journal of Latin American Urban Studies, 2010-present. He is on the Editorial Advisory Board, Journal of Latin American Urban Studies and guest edited World History Bulletin, Fall 2006. He had been Associate Editor (2000-2007) of Latin American Perspectives, and Coordinating Editor (1997-1999) and Book Review Editor (1998-2000) for the same journal. Email: weinerr@ipfw.edu

Roberta Giordano is a PhD in History and Theory of Institutions from the University of Salerno. She has also a master degree in Political Sciences from the University "Orientale" of Naples. Her research interests deal mainly with Hispanic Cultures and Languages. She has been a contract professor of South American Literatures at the Faculty of Literature and Philosophy of the University of Basilicata. At the moment she is a postdoctoral researcher in Institutions, Culture and Language of Spanish Countries at the Political Sciences Faculty of the University of Salerno. Email: giordanorob@yahoo.it

Rodrigo Sigal (www.rodrigosal.com) holds a PhD in Electroacoustic composition from City University in London, a BA in composition from the Musical Studies and Research Center (CIEM) in Mexico City, and was part of the composition workshop directed by Prof. Mario Lavista. He also studied with Denis Smalley, Javier Alvarez, Franco Donatoni, Judith Weir, Michael Jarrel, Alejandro Velasco and Juan Trigos among others. He finished a postdoctorate at the National School of Music in Mexico and he is the director of the Mexican Center for Music and Sonic Arts (www.cmmas.org). He holds a diploma on Cultural Management from the BID/UAM scheme since 2009 and does artistic and academic activities in Mexico and many countries. He has received awards from the Mexican National Fund for Culture and the

Arts (FONCA), The CIEM, The Banff Centre for the Arts in Canada, ORS and The Sidney Perry Foundation in England and the LIEM Studios and The Ministry of Culture in Spain, the 1st. Prize (Cycles, 1999), honorary mentions (Tolerance, 2000 and Twilight, 2001) at the Luigi Russolo Composition Prize and finalist at Bourges 2002 (Twilight). "Friction of things in other places" won the 3rd place at the JTTP prize in 2003 by the CeC (Canada) and the SAN (UK). His work is available in more than 13 compact discs, and his solo CDs "Manifiesto", "Space within" and "B Blind C Ciego" had received excellent reviews and radio broadcast in Mexico and abroad. His music is presented in different countries and he performs his laptop multimedia projects "Oreja Digital" and "Lumínico" with flutist Alejandro Escuer constantly. Since 1991 he has been working as composer, sound and recording engineer in his private studio in Mexico, London and Santiago, composing chamber music, electroacoustic music and works for dance, cinema and other media. He coordinated the Computer Music Lab at CIEM from 1994 until 1998. Since 2004 he is a member of the board of the Latin-American Sonic Arts Network (www.redasla.org). Email: rodrigo@rodrigossil.com

Tajuddin Ahmed is Assistant Professor in English at Netaji Subhas Ashram Mahavidyalaya, Suisa, Purulia. He is Working as a translator in the project "Documentation and Translation of Oral and Folk Literature of West Bengal with reference to Tribal and Dalit Literary Works" in Vidyasagar University. He regularly contributes to the post-editorial column of Anandabazar Patrika. Email: ahmedtajuddin2@gmail.com
